INDEPENDENCE DAY OF RHODE ISLAND

Which Is Being Celebrated Today
Commemorates First Renunciation Of Allegiance To British Crown.

(SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.)
Providence, R. I., May 4.—The anniversary of Rhode Island's declaration of independence, which the local historians claim antedated by two months the general declaration of independence of the thirteen colonies, was celebrated in an official holiday today throughout the state. Rhode Island claims the distinction of having been the first of the original colonies to renounce the sovereignty of Great Britain. According to the historical records it was on May 4, 1776, exactly two months before the Declaration of Independence was signed at Philadelphia, that members of General Assembly of the Colony of Rhode Island and the Providence Plantations took the first step toward a stand against English rule in the shape of a formal renunciation of allegiance to the British Crown.
Two years ago the legislature declared for the observance of the anniversary as a public holiday throughout the state. Today's celebration consisted of patriotic exercises in the public schools and historical exercises in the hall of the old state house in this city, where the declaration of independence was signed 134 years ago by the statesman of Rhode Island.
In further observance of the anniversary a salute of thirteen guns fired at noon in Providence, Newport, Bristol and other cities.

One of the occupants of the Fredendall flats chanced to look out of a rear window about nine o'clock this morning and observed, in a shed opening onto the alleyway just east of South Main street, a revolting scene calculated to fill the best balanced mind with loathing and horror. COMMITTEE BEGINS ITS WORK THURSDAY Industrial and Commercial Club interested in having the Myers Theatre Reseated.

Tomorrow morning, Thursday, the special committee appointed by the Industrial and Commercial club to aid Manager Peter L. Myers in his plan for remodeling and reseating the first floor of his theatre, begins its work. The committee held a meeting with John Thre, Jr., of the American Seating company, whose company will put in the new seats, and approve of the plans for remodeling the first floor of the theatre and also of the seats that are to replace those now in use. There will be four hundred new seats, all of the latest pattern and model and the house will be divided into four aisles instead of three as it now is. Furthermore, the floor is to be re-laid and the first five rows of seats will be brought more on a level with the stage. This will make no seat further than four or five from an aisle and will be a means of emptying the house in less than half the time it now takes, in case of fire or a panic. The seats themselves are most comfortable, finished in green leather and noiseless when raised or lowered. There will be more room between the rows of seats, doing away with the annoyance caused by late comers disturbing the whole row. The foyer will also be enlarged and the floor of the house when finished will be a facsimile of the first floor of the Illinois theatre, Chicago, which is considered a model in playhouses, the country over. The committee from the Industrial and Commercial club, composed of H. H. Bliss, chairman, P. J. Mount, Andrew Gibbons, and Amos Lehberg will act as a flying squadron to secure signatures for the subscription programme to be given during the middle of September, the seats for which will be two dollars and fifty cents each. This attraction will be one of the big musical companies on the road and will be the formal opening of the house with its new seats and other improvements. Manager Myers also plans other changes on the interior of the house, one of them being the arrangement of the exits in case of accident. This improvement to the opera house will be appreciated by all the theatre-goers of the city and will be an advertisement for the city as well as serving to attract good companies here and making the theatre one of the most complete in the state.

ANOTHER CANDIDATE FOR GOVERNORSHIP

Gazette Receives Unique Declaration of Principles From Man At Windsor.

Here is the latest bit of campaign literature to be received. It comes from a man who lives at Windsor and who places himself in nomination for the Governorship. A man without party but standing on a platform of his own making who would enforce the laws if elected. His announcement follows:

Announcement. No gubernatorial candidate has, (so far as I am aware), announced that he will, if elected enforce the laws of the state, in accordance with his oath of office.

No party platform declares for law enforcement.

All of the candidates tell us what they "favor." All of the platforms do the same.

Therefore, in announcing my own candidacy upon the one plank of "Law enforcement," I represent an entirely new department in politics.

If I successfully run the gauntlet of the "primary," and the cut and dried party (Australian) ballot, and am sworn in as Governor, I will observe my oath of office and see that the state, county, town and city officials, heads.

That means a new departure for a Wisconsin Executive. I say this advisedly, since all of our laws are not enforced, under any Governor's administration; and but few officials pretend to make any attempt at enforcement of several of our state laws. Yet we seldom hear of removal for neglect of duty.

To recapitulate, and sum it all up, my platform is this: "Law Enforcement." My pledge is this: "If elected I will faithfully perform the duties of an executive officer according to law, and my oath of office." This involves the duty of seeing that the laws are properly observed and enforced by others.

If you do not believe I have "the nerve," try me!

Of course, it is easy for the voters to elect me! All they have to do is to write my name on the blank place left for candidate for Governor. (Having no party tag in my name, I cannot expect to have it printed on the ballot; but surely that is no handicap at all.

Even voters who do not know my name or that I am running, will write plainly in the proper place; M. P. Wheeler of Windsor. Easy, is it not?

BOYS' CAMPAIGN TO BEGIN ON ELEVENTH

Dr. Perry Edwards Powell Will Be In Janesville For A Week's Work With The Youths of City.

On May eleventh, Dr. Perry Edwards Powell will be in Janesville to conduct a week's campaign in the Cargill Memorial M. E. church. Dr. Powell is a famous boy worker and is the founder of the Boy's Organization known as "Knights of the Holy Grail," a caste of this society having recently been established by the boys of the M. E. church. The Knights of the Holy Grail is an underground boys order and it is hoped that other castles may possibly grow out of this campaign. The object of this order is to give the boys a society of their own and training in self government under the influence of the church. Membership in a Sunday school class is a requirement and membership in the Y. M. C. A. is furnished by the order. There will be no money raised during this campaign. All services will be free with reserved seats for boys. It is planned to make this a great Boy Festival. Services and subjects will be announced later.

IF YOU WERE DOING A $30,000 business each year and making a $6,000 profit, neither advancing nor dropping off, and some one proposed that you spend $200 in advertising to increase your profits $200, would you consider it a good investment?

It WOULD be a remarkably good investment.

First, you would get a great amount of publicity that would cost you nothing;

Second, you would get increased patronage which would cost you nothing and which you may be able to hold to your store for an indefinite time;

Third, if you continued this policy for eight years, you would be making $900 per year MORE than if you did not spend the $200 in advertising for $200 in profit.

The first two suggestions will be accepted generally because they are foregone conclusions. The third suggestion may not be easily understood, though it is a fact

We maintain that $200 spent in advertising your business in the columns of The Gazette will increase your business each year over the preceding year in sufficient amount to make a profit of $200 and that if you continued this advertising for eight years on the same basis you would be making $900 more per year (taking the average increase for eight years) than if you did not advertise and your business remained at $30,000, neither advancing nor dropping off.

We make no pretensions to knowing whether the relation existing between profits and volume of business are correct, but simply give these figures to illustrate.

Volume of business	Advertising outlay	Profits	Increased profits	Volume of business	Advertising outlay	Profits	Increased profits
1st year.....$30,000	$200	$6000	$200	1st year.....$30,000	$200	$6000	$200
2nd year.....31,000	200	6200	200	2nd year.....30,000	000	6000	000
3rd year.....32,000	200	6400	200	3rd year.....30,000	000	6000	000
4th year.....33,000	200	6600	200	4th year.....30,000	000	6000	000
5th year.....34,000	200	6800	200	5th year.....30,000	000	6000	000
6th year.....35,000	200	7000	200	6th year.....30,000	000	6000	000
7th year.....36,000	200	7200	200	7th year.....30,000	000	6000	000
8th year.....37,000	200	7400	200	8th year.....30,000	000	6000	000
8th year.....38,000	200	7600	200	Total.....$240,000	$200	$48000	$200
Total.....$270,000	$1600	$55200	$1600
		$48000
		$ 7200

It will be seen that in Table No. 1 where advertising is used in proportion to increase the total sales are $270,000 as compared to $240,000 in Table No. 2 where no advertising was used. The advertiser's profits were $55,200 in the eight years, while the non-advertiser's profits were only $48,000. THE DIFFERENCE IS $7,200, WHICH IS AN AVERAGE OF $900 INCREASE FOR EACH OF THE EIGHT YEARS.

Here is Another Good Thought

The volume of advertising in the Daily Gazette, is increasing each month, the same advertisers appear in The Gazette month after month. If the advertising did not bring results it would decrease rather than increase.

ASSERT THAT THEY SAW HALLEY'S COMET

Machinists Sullivan and Emery Claim They Saw the "Boomer" Star This Morning.

Unless other railroad men can furnish substantial proof, the distinction of being the first to present their claims that they had seen Halley's comet belongs to Night Machinists Frank Sullivan and "Slim" Emery who state that they saw the "boomer" star this morning between 3:15 and 3:30 o'clock. Although dawn was very near, they are positive that they were not mistaken. According to the machinists who have been watching the heavens for some time, the comet is hardly worth the trouble of searching the skies as it is but a faint and very dim. They are positive, however, that they saw the comet and not Venus or the harbor lights at Milwaukee.

MUCH COAL IS PASSING THROUGH THIS CITY DAILY

During the past few days, an immense amount of coal has passed through the city, principally on the northern Wisconsin division. It is estimated that fully three hundred cars pass through daily. Most of the coal comes from Sheboygan and Green Bay where it is unloaded from the steamers and forwarded over the Northern Wisconsin to points in Iowa, Nebraska and other middle west states.

While traffic on the Northern Wisconsin division is still heavy, the other divisions have run into slack times. Engines are being constantly received from other divisions, and from the Chicago shops for service on the Ashland and Peninsula divisions in hauling ore trains.

Engineer Cole had the 6 p. m. switch engine last night in place of Engineer Hior who was called to Chicago on account of the death of a relative.

A. J. Smith has taken charge of the hoisting apparatus at the coal sheds.

PRESS FOR MEATS

Greatly Facilitates Making of Veal Loaf, Pressed Chicken, Etc.

An invention that will be found to have many uses in the kitchen is the meat press designed by a Wisconsin man. For making pressed chicken, veal or other meat loaf, and for compressing meat for sandwiches, this device will be invaluable. In appearance the affair is much like a letter press, except that the lower portion, instead of being a flat plate, is a box deep enough to hold a large quantity of meat. The meat or fowl is chopped up into large chunks and deposited in this box. The press is then squeezed down until the contents of the box is compressed into a solid mass of meat. This is especially handy for making sandwiches, as it eliminates all waste and does not necessitate the slicing of the roast or fowl only where large pieces of meat can be obtained. It is a big improvement on filling a loaf, and a beautiful loaf of meat that is to be pressed.

ILLINOIS CONGRESS OF MOTHERS BEGINS ITS SESSIONS AT ROCKFORD.

MRS. D. T. BRIGHT PRESIDING

Well-Known Speakers Will Discuss Uprising of Children—Sessions Are to Continue Three Days—R. K. Welsh Welcomes Delegates.

Rockford, Ill., May 4.—The Illinois Congress of Mothers was called to order at two o'clock this afternoon in Memorial hall by Mrs. Orville T. Wright of Chicago. Hundreds of women from all parts of the state and many men were in attendance. R. K. Welsh, president of the Rockford board of education, delivered an address of welcome to which President Wright replied.

The general subject for the discussion of which the congress is held—the proper upbringing of children—was taken up at once, the principal speakers of the afternoon being Mrs. Alfred Hayles of Macomb, on "What of the Other Children?" and Miss Cora Hamilton on "The Big Day and the Little Around Him." The first session closed with a reception to the delegates and their friends.

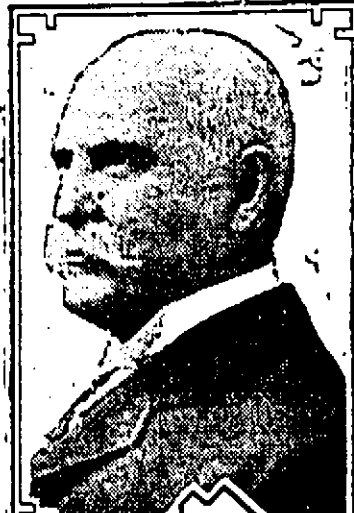

Education for Country Life.
An address on "Education for Country Life," by O. J. Kern, superintendent of schools of Winnebago county, will be the main event of tonight's meeting. Judge L. M. Rockwell will precede the address with a speech of greeting, and Miss Caroline Radecke, soprano, will sing.

The president's address by Mrs. Bright will open the morning session tomorrow, her speech being followed by the reports of various committees. Mrs. L. K. Gibson of Wilmette, who will describe the work for child welfare projected by the National Congress of Mothers, will be among the important speakers of the morning. At noon the delegates will be guests at a luncheon given by the children's home board.

Children on Musical Program.
The educational movement represented by the farmers' institutes will be described by Mrs. Margaret Bangs at the meeting of tomorrow afternoon. Music by children of the Ellis school of Rockford and reports of officers and committees will occupy the remainder of the afternoon.

An address on "The Influence of the Parent and Teacher in Moral Education," to be given by Edward Howard Griggs on tomorrow evening, is expected to be one of the most important addresses of the congress. The Brahms quartet, composed of Mrs. Frank C. Farnum, Lewis W. Peterson, Helen M. Bright and Dr. A. E. DeRiemer, will sing several selections before the lecture.

A business meeting, at which officers will be elected and several modifications of the by-laws will be considered, will close the congress on Friday morning. Resolutions defining the work of the congress for the coming year probably will be adopted at the session.

WHO WILL LEAD THE SENATE IN THE NEXT SESSION OF CONGRESS?

Four prominent leaders in the upper house of congress whose terms expire March 3 1911. Top to bottom—Senators Nelson W. Aldrich of Rhode Island, Henry Cabot Lodge of Massachusetts, Julius Caesar Burrows of Michigan Eugene Hale of Maine.

PLANNING A GARDEN

"Just what father will say I have no idea," began Doris, swinging a pink-checked sun-bonnet over the porch railing. "It was his letter that really started me. So he is partly to blame if he doesn't quite approve. And he does want me to stay outdoors."

"Everybody finds me out here, and I don't pretend to apologize for enveloping aprons and garden tools. I've dragged up enough porch furniture so that I can entertain people and now I don't interrupt things to dress. Out here glimmers do very nicely."

"It is a charming porch," remarked Louise, with a slight shiver, as she carefully rolled up her delicate gloves and lifted her taupe-gray skirts slightly. "But the yard— isn't it a bit dirty, even for glimmers?"

"Now, for goodness' sake, don't be snobbish," pleaded Doris. "It's lovely. And weren't you the very person who advised me to give up the winter term at school and come home, where I could get well making flower gardens? That was the very day father came for me with the news that this house in the suburbs was ours. I came on to find snow everywhere and no possible chance to do anything but plan. Just when things began to get sunny father was called away on this tiresome business trip. Through my conscientious efforts mother's life was made a nightmare until she got father to send a long list of instructions and plans for the garden."

"I started that very day in earnest," father wrote. "Have the garden spaded and arranged according to these plans, and when I come Doris can do all the planting under my instructions. I can see his smile as he wrote that. What will he say to this, I wonder?"

"You see, I had already made plans of my own. He had sent for lots of horticultural magazines and in one of them I found a glorious plan for a formal garden—just the size of ours. Of course father wasn't specially interested in the flower beds of it at all. He is so crazy over sweet corn and summer squashes that he can't think of other things. When he told me how much of the ground could be mine I kept the plan to myself, for there seemed such oceans of time to discuss it. After he went south I talked it over with mother, and who wrote him about some of my plans. That was why he sent his. So we started in, making every now and then a few changes that didn't really matter."

"Mother protested for a time, but she hasn't said a word for a week—not since I started to dig the pool for my roses and goldfish. Yes, that's it. In the center will be a bank of gravel, but there will be a mud bottom for the long roots. And I had pipes laid, so there will be a continual flow of water across the pool. Of course there is the water tax to think of, as mother says, but maybe we can get a special rate, since we want to use so much water. Most things are cheaper at wholesale, you know."

"Along the sunny fence I've planted hollyhocks and cosmos and coreopsis, because they make unbecomely comrades when shoulder to shoulder," as my book says. Father's corn was to have been there, but it can go somewhere else just as well, and think of the difference in the looks—and on the most prominent side of the yard, too!"

"The beds all circle about the iris pool and the paths are to be of grass, with a four-foot border with sweet alyssum, pansies and foliage plants. Just like the park. And there are my poppy beds—hyacinths even in the heart of flowerdom," my book calls them.

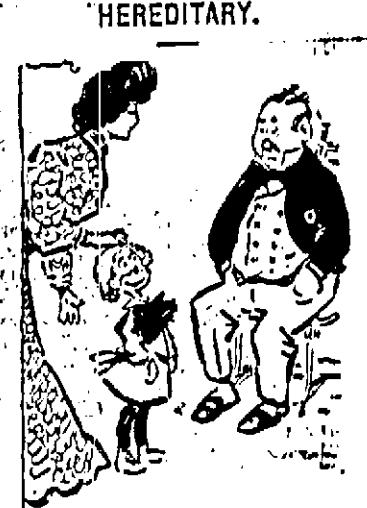

"That pillar? Oh, that is my sun-dial. Isn't it sweet? I had to have one, for this article says: 'About the sundial clusters all the romance of the ages. It is enveloped in an atmosphere of poetry.'"

"Mother and I had our most serious discussion over that bed on the north side of the yard. I have to wait for father before I shall know about my summer house. There I shall serve tea, with rambling roses and clematis and wisteria climbing all about. Father had selected that side for his asparagus beds and they were already started, so I yielded to mother in that. I love asparagus, don't you? And if I must do without the summer house I'll have the vines over the porch, as mother suggested."

"Other vegetables? Well, yes, father wants them, and I am worried to think where he can put them. Why, he even wanted pumpkins and cantaloupes. I have left a bed for lettuce and radishes and such pretty things as that. The book advised it. As for the rest, we can buy all the vegetables we want from the truck farmers around. I inquired about that."

"I haven't written father my entire plan. It will be such a nice surprise for him, I think. Besides, it is so complicated that he couldn't have understood it in a letter. I did write about moving the tomato beds away from my hollyhocks and he telegraphed me to let them alone, so that discouraged me."

"I have a suggestion, though. If he can't find room for his corn here, why can't he buy this empty lot next to us? He could have a regular farm there. He is coming home to-night and that is the first thing I want to talk to him about. Don't you think he'd like all that space for vegetables?"

Orville Topor—So you think Bertie resembles me, eh? Now, in what respect, my dear?
Mrs. Fondman—Well, uncle, the little fellow is always so full of spirit, don't you know!

THE MOTHER'S PROBLEM

Of Raising Strong, Healthy Girls.

A serious problem which presents itself to every mother with girls to raise, in these days. The exigencies of school life, the hurry and routine of every-day duties, the artificial environment of modern civilization, make it more difficult to raise strong, healthy girls than ever in the history of the world. Boys raise themselves. Give them room, give them liberty, and they will grow up healthy at least, without much worrying. But the girls present a serious problem.

How many mothers there are who are worrying about their daughters. Nervous, puny girls, with poor, capricious appetites, bloodless, listless, a constant anxiety to the mother. How shall she solve her problem? To whom shall she turn for help? Each case is more or less a study by itself, and cannot be solved by any general rule.

This is the way one mother solved the problem. Mrs. Schepfer, 6200 Prescott Ave., St. Louis, Mo., in a letter to Dr. Hartman, says: "My daughter Alice, four years of age, was a puny, sickly, ailing child since she was born. I was always doctoring her. When we commenced to use Peruna she grew strong and well."

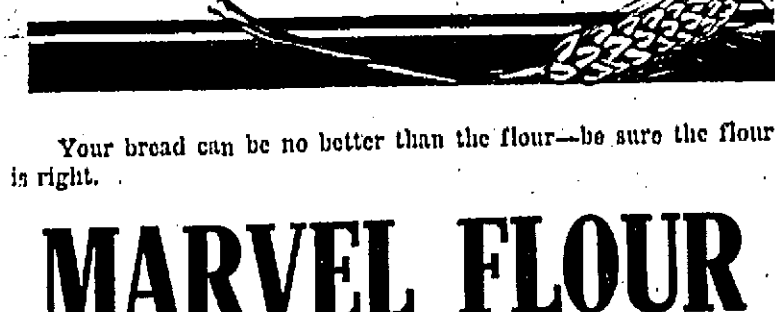

Another mother, Mrs. Martha Moss, R. F. D. 6, Chippewa Falls, Wisconsin, says: "Our little eight-year-old girl had a bad cough, and was in a general run-down condition. She had several doctors, who could give the child no relief, and the mother no encouragement."

Finally, she got a bottle of Peruna and commenced giving it to the child, and it proved to be just what she needed. When she commenced taking Peruna, the child had to be carried. Now the mother says she is playing around all the time.

Her closing words were: "You have done a great deal for her. She is the only girl we have, and it meant lots to us to have her cured."

These are samples of many letters which Dr. Hartman is receiving, coming straight from the hearts of loving mothers. While the different schools of medicine are bickering and differing as to theories and remedies, Peruna goes right steadily on giving permanent relief. After all, it is cures that the people want. Theories are of little account.

SENSITIVE SENATORS.

A prominent senator is quoted as saying, apropos of the retirement of Senators Spooner, Hale and Aldrich, that he himself is tempted to follow in their footsteps because public service has "almost ceased to be an honor in the midst of all this vituperation and misrepresentation."

"Certainly the feeling is natural. We are living at a time of what Grover Cleveland called 'Frenzy of denunciation,' a manifestation in national pathology of which, he added, 'we shall all be heartily ashamed by and by.' No doubt; and, one hopes, before the clamor of the evil tongue has driven the ablest men from public life in sheer disgust, and deterred the fittest men from entering it.

"Political calumny, it is true, has always loved the shining mark; and examples may be quoted to admonish sensitive public men that they should be made of sterner stuff, like some of their great predecessors. Washington complained that he had been 'aimed like a pickpocket.' Lincoln was the target for the cruellest and coarsest calumny. Only the comparatively obscure and negligible escape.

"Trotting under fire from mud and batteries and snail-guns argues no very high degree of courage or sense of the fact that such missiles leave no mark on the clean target. Superstitious senators who talk about retreating to save their own susceptibilities should mark the fighting front of old Joe Cannon who keeps his colors flying with a grim resolution that commands the respect, if not the sympathy, of the entire public. If 'Uncle Joe' goes down it will be with his colors nailed to the mast, and everybody cheering his pluck, if nothing else."

"This, from the Milwaukee Sentinel, sizes up the situation, so far as the leaders in the senate are concerned. When Senator Spooner retired, two years ago, it caused the first break in the old guard, and when Allison and Henderson were removed by death the ranks were badly depleted.

With the retirement of Aldrich and Hale the leadership will be delegated to new men who have yet to prove their ability for the responsible positions.

It is not surprising that the old time leaders have grown weary of criticism which of late has amounted to calumny, and as the little circle has narrowed the burden of responsibility has taxed patience and human endurance to the limit.

That the senate will continue to have leaders is a well recognized fact, but with the present unsettled condition of the administration party, the character of the new leadership is a question of great importance. If the insurgent movement continues to develop the senate will be largely under its influence and another two years will make radical changes in both the house and senate. With a democratic house, which is among the probabilities, and an insurgent senate, which is possible, President Taft will be "between the devil and the deep blue sea." This is certainly an era of political revolution.

THE MISSIONARY MOVEMENT.

The great missionary movement represented by the laymen's convention, now in session in Chicago, with 4,000 delegates in attendance from all parts of the country, is significant because the men behind it are business men.

Hitherto the work of evangelizing the world has been conducted by the clergy, aided by enthusiastic women organized for missionary work, but the laymen's congress is a distinctive organization with plenty of money behind it, and a determination to push a vigorous campaign and redeem the world in a single generation.

The keynote of sentiment is expressed in streamers which decorate the theatre, proclaiming:

"This is the only generation we can reach."

"We can do it and we will do it."

"The evangelization of the world in this generation."

It is an undenominational organization, inspired by the simple thought, the uplifting of humanity. Unity of action was encouraged by Bishop Anderson of the Chicago diocese in his address yesterday, when he said:

"Enough energy and money are wasted by rivalry and overlapping of the different denominations in America to preach the gospel to the whole world. We must get together and stop this waste. Our divisions are unchristianlike and unchristianlike. A reunited church possessed with faith and zeal would be irresistible. It could evangelize the world in a generation. For the churches to come together it is not necessary for us to give up any particle of truth. Let us give up our pride, our ecclesiastical conceit, our jealousies, our inherited prejudices, and our ignorance."

Lord Lillian Cecil of Canada, in speaking of the churches' opportunity and war as a civilization, said:

"The battle of Mukden, one of the greatest battles in the history of the world, was fought in a territory where the sacred tombs of the emperors were threatened with desecration. China was horrified, but was powerless to prevent it.

"The victory of Japan, strange as it may seem, was recognized as a victory of the west over the east. The entire east saw that it was because Japan had accepted western civilization more completely than even Russia had who had been able to win over her powerful foe. Not only has China accepted this truth, but Persia and Turkey have, and it is revolutionizing the entire orient.

"Now, for some evidence that the gospel is having its effect on the life of the nation. Years ago when I went to China I saw the Chinese everywhere smoking opium and the fold red with the poppy. On my last visit, though, I traveled from Mukden to Peking, from Peking to Hankow, and then to Shanghai, and I did not see a single trace of the poppy or of the opium habit."

The Christian business world is alive to the situation, and with this new and mighty energy in the missionary field, the outlook for the spread of a better civilization is very promising. The redemption of the world means more than carrying the bible to heathen lands. It means more than showing the benighted people a better way to die.

It means the uplifting of a race to a broader plain and teaching by precept and example a better way to live. It means winning men to a higher civilization and a better morality through brotherly love and human sympathy. This is what the great laymen's movement will attempt to accomplish.

If Charles A. White, the self-styled bribe-taker in Illinois, is a specimen of democratic intelligence in the Sucker state, the party has no right to aspire to leadership. According to White's admission, he was the cheapest commodity in the market, and how he ever came to be in the legislature is a question not easily solved. The men who managed Lorimer's campaign must have been asleep when they picked up White and attempted to satisfy his thirst.

If the average voter took any interest in politics, the independent movement would amount to more than a theory, but when the fact is considered that 75 per cent of the voters are so indifferent that they fail to vote on many questions of public interest it is apparent that well organized parties with a loyal constituency, are vital to public welfare. The independent voter is capable of doing a lot of mischief, because he is influenced by designing leaders inspired by personal ambition.

The scandal connected with the election of Lorimer to the senate in Illinois is a disgrace to the state and the charges now being investigated should be probed to the bottom. But for the force of the primary law, the chances are that Lorimer would not have been a candidate, for Hopkins would have made his campaign among the legislative candidates instead of before the people. The primary law is a snare and delusion from every viewpoint, and a menace to every state which has adopted it.

The railroads are seriously considering an advance of 10 per cent in freight rates and there is a general kick all along the line, but the roads have recently been obliged to add $100,000,000 to their payroll account, and the money must be secured from the consumer, who always pays the freight. There is really no occasion for complaint for the demands of the men had to be met and to do this the earnings of the roads must be increased.

"Uncle Joe" Cannon manages to hold his own against all kinds of opposition. Yet Cannonism is no longer an issue. The house rules will continue to be arbitrary, wherever happens to be speaker.

The president's railroad measures are likely to be defeated and the insurgents are responsible. No republican administration was ever so badly hampered by disloyalty.

Two men were wrangling over the tariff; one called the other man a scoundrel, or something stronger yet; and after further dark blue phrases, the other's head like blazes, till wet with blood and sweat. One hit the other with a shutter and knocked him endways in the gutter, with wondrous wind and bottom, they scurried till peepers came and got 'em, and put 'em in the jug. Then up there came the statistician, who stood, with pencil in position, and figured on a plank; "the energy those men expended," he said, "before the scrap was ended, would turn a grindstone, crank, three hundred million times, exactly; I've put the figures here compactly—they loom up like a wall; that energy, if put to turning another crank, would do the churning of fifty tons of milk. That energy, if used to sawing, would cut ten cords of oak; or it would pump two miles of water, or, in a butcher's yard, would slaughter twelve steers, and that's no joke. That energy, I say, doggone it, would operate, with wheels upon it, a coal mine, fifty years—" but here his eloquence forsook him, and then his keepers came and took him, and held him by the ears.

Then up there came the statistician, who stood, with pencil in position, and figured on a plank; "the energy those men expended," he said, "before the scrap was ended, would turn a grindstone, crank, three hundred million times, exactly; I've put the figures here compactly—they loom up like a wall; that energy, if put to turning another crank, would do the churning of fifty tons of milk. That energy, if used to sawing, would cut ten cords of oak; or it would pump two miles of water, or, in a butcher's yard, would slaughter twelve steers, and that's no joke. That energy, I say, doggone it, would operate, with wheels upon it, a coal mine, fifty years—" but here his eloquence forsook him, and then his keepers came and took him, and held him by the ears.

If You Are Neglecting Your Teeth

These wet, chilly days are a fruitful cause of neuritic pains in the face and teeth.

A Dentist can fill the decayed tooth so that their usefulness will be extended for years to come.

Don't lose your teeth.

Nature intended them to stay with you as long as you live.

But it takes care on your part and attention from the Dentist to keep them serviceable.

I save teeth, but if they are too bad, I can remove them painlessly.

GAZETTE PRINTING CO.

THIEVES ACTIVE AFTER MIDNIGHT

BUT LOOT INCLUDED LITTLE OF MUCH VALUE.

BROKE INTO FIVE PLACES

Took Razors From Spaulding's Barber Shop and An Ancient Revolver From New Doty Co. Office.

Five business places—three of them outside of the police patrol district—were broken into by burglars last evening and everything seems to indicate that the work was done by youthful "home talent." With the exception of nearly two dozen razors and some other articles which were carried away from Claude Spaulding's barber-shop on Academy street, nothing of great value rewarded the thieves for their efforts.

Lunch Man's Discovery.
Archie Newell, owner of a lunch wagon in the immediate neighborhood of the Spaulding barber shop and entrusted with a key to the place in order to give him access to the water faucet discovered evidences of the raid when he entered the place about two o'clock this morning.

Spaulding was immediately notified and upon arriving on the scene found 23 razors, 6 bottles of hair tonic, some clippers, and the contents of a gun machine in the hands of a burglar. The clippers and scissors, and a new pair of shears which had been left in the place had not been molested. The proprietor and one of his employees were at the shop until midnight, so the robbery must have occurred between the hours of twelve and two.

New Doty Works Office.
A search was removed from one of the windows of the New Doty Works office and as the window itself had been left unlocked entrance was effected without any great difficulty. The desk drawers were opened and an old fashioned four-shooter revolver, which Victor P. Richardson took away from a man who threatened his life many years and which had practically no intrinsic value, was appropriated. It was also thought this morning that an umbrella was missing but a search failed to show that anything else had disappeared.

Strickler May Tool Co.
Enough glass was broken out of one of the windows in the Strickler May Tool Co.'s office at 215 North Main Street to permit a hand to reach through the sash and pull out the old fashioned side-bell. A small chisel was broken in prying open the drawers of the desk and the thieves carried away a package of unsharpened lead pencils as their sole booty.

Blatz Brewing Co. Office.
The night burglars, after gaining entrance to the Blatz Brewing Co. warehouse office near the C. & N. W. depot by removing a screen, lifted the safe and Henry Casey's pipe and proceeded to go into executive session. They broke into the desk drawers and rummaged them thoroughly but found nothing that caught their fancy. No attempt was made to get to the bottled goods in the warehouse and upon taking their departure the burglars left the place a shambles.

At the Murdoch Home.
Mrs. Floyd Murdoch was awakened at her home on North Franklin street about two o'clock this morning by sounds of the side screen door cracking on its hinges. She subsequently heard someone try the main portal and she believes that still later someone rapped lightly on the front door.

The Independent Office.
This afternoon S. J. Cowley reported to the police that thieves entered his office during the night and after rummaging the desk made good their escape, taking with them a fountain pen. He obtained nothing else. They obtained an entrance through a window.

GAVE BANQUET FOR DEPARTING MEMBERS

Lakota Club Entertained Last Evening for Frank Phelps and Arthur Atchison.

At the Grand Hotel last evening the members of the Lakota Club entertained their guests at a banquet. A delicious dinner was served at eight o'clock followed by a short but interesting program. Afterward they attended the dancing party in assembly hall. The tables were beautifully decorated with the colors and symbols of the club, carnations and ferns. The entertainment was in the nature of a farewell to Frank Phelps, who is soon to depart for St. Louis, and Arthur Atchison, who departs in the near future for Minneapolis. President D. R. Sullivan presided as toastmaster. To him and to Clarence Brown, who arranged the menu, is due a large share of the credit for the success of the affair. Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Jones were the chaperones.

The Lakota Club was organized last October with twelve members. Later six more were admitted and the present membership numbers eighteen. Their present quarters are a suite of rooms in the Hayes block, but a cozy that over the Piper jewelry store on West Milwaukee street has been rented and they will soon move into it.

The members are: Clarence Brown, Robert Clithero, Walter A. A. Brown, Arthur Atchison, Joseph Farnsworth, D. R. Sullivan, Charles McDonald, Roy McDonald, Edward Madden, George Sennott, Frank Phelps, John Paterson, William Shoemaker, Forrest Meek, James Heffron, Harold Jones, Roy Scott and Edward Fleming.

The program of the evening was as follows:
Original poem—"Casey's Down the Line"—Edward Madden
"Goodbye, Janesville and Club"—Frank Phelps Toast "To the Lakota Club"
Toast "To the Ladies"—J. H. Jones
"A Minute of Nonsense"—George J. Sennott

Slightly injured: While cranking his auto in front of Archie Bold's store this morning Dr. Sullivan struck his forehead against the edge of the radiator and the skin was broken. He bled profusely but was not otherwise inconvenienced.

WORKERS ARE BUSY SELLING THE TAGS

Today the Official "Tag Day" of W. C. T. U. and Ladies Are "Tagging" Everybody.

Today was the official "Tag Day" of the W. C. T. U. and a force of forty workers have been busy all day in the residence and business districts selling tags to everyone whom they met. People on the streets who had not been tagged, were halted and generally before they again proceeded on their way, they wore the tag. What- ever sum is given, be it a dollar or a dime, no change is given and as the workers are laboring industriously it is thought that a good-sized sum will be realized today. The proceeds will be divided between the local, state and national W. C. T. U. organizations.

FIRST JANESVILLE MAN TO SEE COMET

H. F. Nott Took Long Walk Early This Morning and Caught Sight of the Visiting Sky Wanderer.

To H. F. Nott belongs the credit for being the first resident of Janesville to view Halley's comet. Mr. Nott took a long walk into the country early this morning and advises others who care to get a clear view of the comet to follow his example. "At 2:15 this morning I had my first view of Halley's comet. The morning was ideal for the occasion—sky clear, air cold and frosty, and all was still except for the crowing of roosters here and there. I took a long walk to the country and back and on my walk, away from the trees and buildings of the city I got a nice view of the comet. To all lovers of nature and of good health, arise once in your life at 2:30, which is better than three o'clock, and take a stroll into the fragrant air of the morning. It will do you good, and there here the comet you will observe Halley's comet in all of its glory, and at six o'clock you will have a fine appetite for breakfast. Four o'clock is too late for the comet—you won't see it."

A. G. METZINGER FATALLY INJURED

Stockbuyer From This City May Lose Life as Result of Wreck in Chicago.

Word was received this morning from Chicago of a serious and perhaps fatal injury to A. G. Metzinger, who claims this city as his home. He was riding on a stock train in the Forttenth street yards when the train was wrecked. Metzinger, who was hurt this morning, was hurried to St. Anne's hospital where he was still unconscious at noon, which makes it almost impossible to tell whether or not his injuries will prove fatal. BRIBE CASE IS HALTED

STATE'S ATTORNEY WAYMAN'S ABSENCE STOPS GRAND
JURY'S INVESTIGATION.

MUCH MYSTERY IS RESULT

Prosecutor's Conferences With Unknown Men Starts Rumors—Lorimer Denies He Will Be Witness and Starts for Washington.

Chicago, May 4.—Grand jury investigation of the legislative bribery scandal was temporarily halted by the absence of State's Attorney Wayman, who went forth supposedly in search of evidence to corroborate the story of Representative Charles A. White.

The special jurors will meet again today, when it is expected that the charges will be taken up and that White will be brought before the inquirers to repeat his confession that he took a bribe of $1,000 for voting for William Lorimer for senator and accepted $900 as his share of a general legislative "yellow dog" fund, or "jack pot."

Mr. Wayman managed to wrap the veil of mystery about his movements. He kept in communication with his office in the criminal court building by means of the telephone, but his whereabouts were kept secret.

Busy in Conferences.
The general understanding was that he was secluded in an office somewhere downtown, and that he was busy in conferences with persons whose identity was not revealed, getting additional evidence.

The news that Mr. Wayman was in secret conference with persons unknown in a place unknown led to the appearance of a variety of reports. One was to the effect that a Chicago member of the legislature had made a confession corroborating White's narrative of his alleged experiences at Springfield. This, however, remained unverified.

Report Is Not Affirmed.

Mr. Wayman's assistants, some of whom heard from him frequently, could not give the report affirmation, while a canvass by telephone of the Chicago Democratic assemblymen, who voted for Senator Lorimer, brought in each case a denial that the member had received a subpoena, had heard from Mr. Wayman or was in possession of information concerning legislative bribery. All the Democrats who voted for Mr. Lorimer were reached on the wire with some half dozen exceptions, and these men were out of the city.

Lorimer Goes to Washington.

Another report was that Senator Lorimer would be a witness before the special grand jury. This rumor, however, was scoffed at in the state's attorney's office, while as to the senator himself he denied that he had had any communication or word of any sort from the prosecutor, and he said that he expected none. Mr. Lorimer expects to return to Washington today, and for the present will not make public the letters he received from White.

Income Tax Lost by One Vote.

Albany, N. Y., May 4.—A second attempt to pass the resolution favoring the federal income tax failed in the assembly. By a vote of 75 to 67 the house refused to sustain a motion to reconsider the vote by which the resolution recently was defeated. Only one vote was lacking.

MR. TOO CAREFUL

F. AUGUSTUS HEINZE AT RIGHT, UNITED STATES DISTRICT ATTORNEY HENRY WISE AT LEFT

New York.—After delays, demerits and the dismissal of one indictment during the last two years, Fritz Augustus Heinze heralded at one time as the copper king and a man who had fought the Standard Oil interests to a finish in Montana was placed on trial this week before Judge Hough in the United States circuit court on a consolidated indictment charging over-certification and misapplication of the funds of the Mercantile National bank of which he was president for a time prior to the panic of 1907. About $2,000,000 is involved in the charges made.

been sustained by the court. Fifteen counts charge an over-certification of the funds of Otto Heinze & Co., and 15 counts charge misapplication, the amount involved being $6,436,000. One count charges the conversion of the funds of the bank, the specific amount being $500,000 loaned to Otto Heinze & Co., October 14, 1907.

There are seven counts remaining in the indictment found March 2 and which charge misapplication and conversion of the bank by demand loans made to Otto Heinze & Co., on the following dates in 1907: June 21, $50,000; August 16, $125,000; August 28, $116,000; August 28, $30,000; October 11, $20,000, and October 14, $500,000. It is on these counts that Mr. Heinze will be tried.

Too Much Selfishness.

One of the reasons why the present age is said to be so exceptionally dismal is that so many men and women give themselves up to selfishness. Selfishness is the secret of unhappiness.

Philanthropic.

The New York butter caught with $15,000 worth of diamonds in his pocket is thought to have perfected some self-tipping scheme so as not to have to annoy house guests.

WOMAN'S PAGE

The Evening Chit-Chat

By RUTH CAMERON

THE LADY diagonally across the street from us has been in rather indifferent health since her last summer's vacation—despite the fact that that vacation was two months spent at a beautiful mountain resort.

My neighbor's vacations up to last summer have always taken the form of a month spent at a boarding house or small hotel somewhere in the country, but last summer she thought she would spread the same money over two months by having a cottage.

She took a cottage just far enough from the town so that all her friends could—and did—run down for the week's end.

She had to leave her maid at home to look after the part of the family that could not be moved, so that meant she had her own work to do at the cottage.

And so, as I said at the beginning, the lady diagonally across the street from us has been in rather poor health ever since her last summer's vacation, despite the fact that that vacation was two months spent at a beautiful mountain resort.

I am tempted to stop here and leave the point to sink in without any assistance on my part, but I suppose that wouldn't be quite according to style.

Any woman who has the cares of a house through the rest of the year owes it to herself to take some kind of a vacation which will be a complete rest from the routine of housework.

And the mere removal of the scene of her activities to a summer cottage certainly doesn't give all of the attendant circumstances I have described along this line knows that a good many of them are mighty apt to be present.
A month or two spent in the country is a very desirable thing for all the family, but I think that month should be spent at a boarding house or hotel, giving the mother a chance to enjoy it with the rest, or else she should have some separate vacation entirely free from all household cares.

MISS BESSIE SESSIONS.
Washington Society Leader, Makes Good Before the Footlights.

Washington, D. C.—Lured by the fascination of the footlights, Miss Bessie Sessions, stepdaughter of Lieut. Col. Benjamin Reeves Russell, U. S. M. C., retired, one of Washington's prettiest society girls, is appearing in "Bright Eyes" at the Forest theatre, Philadelphia. She did this unknown to her friends or parents, as she was supposed to be in New York on a visit.
When discovered Miss Sessions said she had enjoyed the experience, but was willing to return home at the end of this week's engagement.

DROPPING THE SCALES.

By MARY RUSSELL.

The devastating frost which has swept the country, destroying the fruit which was in blossom, is an emblem of a good man or woman going wrong.

So fair was the promise—so beautiful the present—and so admiring the future that the loss and blight is worse than if the promise had been less.

When a man in a high place does an evil deed it has never stood for all that is good does the same deed.

The one but words out his own destiny, but the other greets ideas, and we need all the ideas that we can retain.

There is a difference between the idealist and the sentimentalist—just as there is a difference between sentiment and sentimentalism.

An idealist is one who is not deceived in the real things of life, but holds that the power of man for improvement is greater today than ever before. What he will do to do he may do.

The ideals of life are said to have been lowered in the last decade. This is not true. Our ideals of character and character building are higher than man has ever before dreamed.

The thing we have done is to become honest.

We are not blinded by love today into a belief that the unworthy person is all that is true.

We are not blinded by position to the real man or woman who fills the position.

The divinity of kings is a thing at which we laugh.

We recognize the divinity of man in the life he leads. We recognize his nobility by the deeds he does—not by the deeds of his ancestors.

Inheritance of traits is not so potent a factor in man's life as is the inheritance of environment.

It is this knowledge of the influence of environment that is back of the great socialistic movement in the world today.

The man who is busy helping to establish playgrounds is in his way a socialist. He is building one of the rungs of a great ladder on which the man below may climb.

The settlement worker is another builder whose work is a rung in the same ladder.

The work today is not only to point the way, but to make it possible that the trampled feet may be set in the way we know is good.

Oh, we are a bigger and better people now than the world of history has ever known.

Our papers resound with misdeeds of these in high places and the foot saw of the world is rotten.

ered up and the world would be no wiser.
We are a better people today because we dare to say to a leader of men: "You are wrong and you must atone just as a man lower down would atone."
We are better because we study and use the potential power, not as the individual.
The series are falling from our eyes and we are beginning to see as God sees—to love as God loves.

BLACK NET TUNIC.

Black net tunics have been much worn and liked during the late winter season, and promise to retain their popularity during the spring apart from the dress over which they are worn, and this one with trimming of black lace insertion is especially good-looking. The sleeves are cut in one with bodice and the fulness at waist is confined under a circle of crushed black chiffon, with long ends tucked above hem.

STRAW HAT.

There are innumerable smart models in straw hats appropriate for wear with tailor suits or for wear on summer mornings. In the country, above all, is a good-looking example in a straw hat, the only adornment a hand and bow of black velvet. The color of velvet, however, may match or harmonize with one's gown if so desired.

PLAIN AND PRETTY.

For morning wear at shore or in the mountains, a china silk blouse is almost essential, and we picture today a plain but pretty design for such wear. Use the large dotted white silk, with plaited plain silk trim, collar and cuff trimming, as shown in sketch. A blouse of this type is exceedingly useful and comfortable.

BEAN SHELLER

Separates Seeds From Pods and Throws Refuse Matter Away.

A sorting machine for seeds has been invented by a Michigan man and it will be found an extremely useful apparatus on large farms or on seed house estates.
A wooden framework has a conveyor device running longitudinally toward a chute. This conveyor, which is operated by a chain gear worked by a treadle, contains trays with blades projecting above the edge. The pods are fed into the trays through a hopper and scraped open by the blades. The trays being shallow, the refuse material is ejected over the

USEFUL ON LARGE FARMS.

side and the beans are carried on to the chute, dumped there as the trays turn and shot down into a receptacle at the bottom. The process of shelling out seeds by hand is a large and tedious job and the time saved by one of these machines is considerable. Anyway, the seedman remember, 1910 model, does very few things by hand.

SURE THING.

HELPING HER OUT.
"Why don't you consider my proposal?"
"Oh, there's such a difference in our ages."
"But a woman never tells her age."

Hopeless.
We don't suppose a Scotchman and an Irishman will ever be able to peacefully settle an argument, because the madder a Scotchman gets the slower he talks, and the slower he talks the better the Irishman feels.

more, but because we wanted you to know for yourself the QUALITY of our TOILET PREPARATIONS. YOU KNOW that we would not have dared to have made this offer if our Toilet Preparations were not the ACME OF PERFECTION. You were pleased with the results; you could not have been otherwise.

We Want You to Know More About Our Other Preparations

If your mirror reflects a complexion that is sallow, lifeless or muddy,—a skin that is rough, coarse-pored, or marred by wrinkles, fine lines or blemishes, follow our special instructions, JUST ONCE, and you will be delighted with the results.

Cleanse the face and neck thoroughly with the E. BURNHAM CUCUMBER and ELD-ERFLOWER CREAM. Use a soft cloth, carefully removing any excess cream; then apply a little of the E. BURNHAM KALOS-OZONE MASSAGE CREME, massaging with the bulbs of the fingers, until the cream disappears. Then apply just a speck of the E. BURN-HAM ROUGE, spreading it evenly over the cheeks. Then a dash of powder (if the skin is rough, omit the powder). Be careful to give the neck the same treatment that you do the face. Pass both hands lightly over the entire face and neck, so as to remove any stray particle of powder remaining. The results will be AMAZING. This treatment will protect the complexion from the ill effects of exposure to the sun and the winds. DON'T DELAY this treatment. "Prevention is the chief of time."

Our booklet, "HOW TO BE BEAUTIFUL," contains a list of our line of Toilet Requisites, and tells what each preparation is for, and how to apply it. Ask your dealer for one.
These preparations are for sale at all first-class dealers, or direct upon receipt of price.

(Special to the Gazette).
Monroe, Wis., May 4.—Edward Nif-fenegger, a prominent farmer of Clarno, died yesterday at his home following a week's illness from a complication of disease. He was called a week ago Sunday and rallied at different times and was thought to be in a serious condition. A couple of days ago two trained nurses were called in to help care for him and he died at 4:30 o'clock in the afternoon.
The deceased spent most of his early days in the town of Clarno where he was born in 1868. In 1893 he was married to Mrs. Jesse Preston, who, est but a year old, are left to mourn his loss. Mr. Niffenegger has always made his home on the farm and has dealt extensively in live stock. His father, Andrew Niffenegger, who has made his home with the deceased, two brothers and one sister also survive.

The funeral services will be held from the home at 1:30 o'clock Thursday afternoon.

FAMILY FOOD
Crisp, Toothsome and Requires no
Cooking.
A little boy down in N. C. asked his mother to write an account of how Grape-Nuts were first brought to him where she visited.
"While I was there I used the food regularly. I gained about 15 pounds and felt so good when I returned home I began using Grape-Nuts in the family regularly."
"My little 18-month-old baby shortly after being weaned was very ill with dysentery and toothache. She was sick nine weeks and we tried everything. She became so emaciated that it was painful to handle her and we thought we were going to lose her.
One day a happy thought urged me to try Grape-Nuts soaked in a little warm milk.
"Well, it worked like a charm and she began taking it regularly and improvement set in at once. She is now getting well and round and fat as fast as possible and on Grape-Nuts."
"Some time ago several of the family were stricken with La Grippe at the same time, and during the worst stages we could not relish anything in the shape of food but Grape-Nuts and oranges, everything else nauseating us.
"We all appreciate what your family food has done for our family."
Read "The Road to Wellville." found in pkgs. "There's a Reason."
Ever reads the above letter? A new one appears from time to time. They are genuine, true, and full of human interest.

Womans Relief Corps.
About two hundred members of the Womans Relief Corps of the cities of Janesville, Madison, Beloit, Edgerton, Brookfield, Oregon and Beloitville, were guests of the local corps last Saturday. The greater part of the delagation came by train and upon their arrival in the city assembled at the G. A. R. hall. The banquet hour was set for one o'clock and at twelve thirty the ladies marched in a body to the parlors of the Methodist church where a beautiful feast was served.
After the banquet refreshments for the ladies and children for the afternoon were served. Mrs. Martha M. Wolfe, president of the Janesville corps, presided. On the platform were seated the following department and nation officers:
Department President—Annie E.
Noves of Madison.
Department Patriotic Instructor—
Lillian Williams, Beloitville.
Department Press Correspondent and National Aide, Cora E. Harris, Evansville.
Department Chief-of-staff—Emma

Department Aide—Mrs. Marsden,

Department Aide—Mrs. Harnden,

Post Dep't. Secretary—Ellen Peck,

Post Dep't. Inspector—Florence

Nat. Aide—Mrs. Carmen, Janesville.
Those officers were then introduced to the audience of about 275, by Mrs.

In the band they call him "The African," not because he was born in Africa or even because he accompanied Teddy on his hunting expedition, but simply because he is unusually swarthy in complexion and has tight curly hair that betrays perhaps a remote Moorish ancestry. The "African" is Antonio Declino, the phenomenal clarinet soloist of the Ellery band which is soon to appear in this city. Declino is as much a natural clarinet player as Patti and Mollie are natural singers. He has the "voice" just as they have and also the art to back it. His performance are of such exquisite beauty as to fairly enchant his audience. He will be heard at one of the concerts which is to be given here either in a grand concert or incidental endowment. The playing of this one single artist in this marvelous band is alone enough to fill a theatre with people who love what is beautiful. Ellery's band will give two concerts at Myers Theatre Thursday, May 5, matinee and evening under auspices of Loyal Order of Moose.

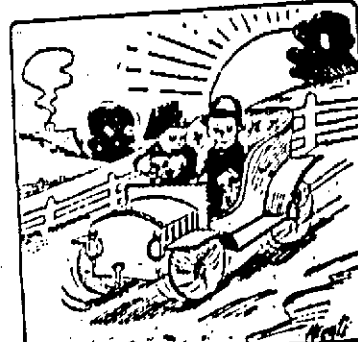

"The Flower of the Ranch," which comes to the Myers Theatre Monday evening, May 9, is another one of Joseph E. Howard's dozen or more musical successes and is one of the most unique things yet given to the public by this prolific musical writer. "The Flower of the Ranch" is a musical melodrama, filled with a lot of rattling good music numbers, and the novelty of the piece lies in the fact that it is as closely worked out in the minutest detail as any of the highest class dramatic productions. There are nearly twenty of the catchiest musical numbers and a big chorus, both of which could be removed and then there would still be a corking good play of the Western kind. The plot tells the story of the life of a little girl, the only survivor of a stage coach wreck, who is taken home by a warm hearted old rancher, and made one of the family. She is too young when the accident occurs to know her name, and there is no evidence left to tell who she is. Her romping, bright nature furnished a lot of sunshine for the ranchers who dub her the "flower." Fifteen years on a ranch brings her into young womanhood, and then the love affair follows, in which a young rancher, a scheming sheriff and a villainous Mexican and others, including the foster father are the principals.

JOHN E. FRANK AS "JACK FARNUM" IN "THE FLOWER OF THE RANCH." MYERS THEATRE, MONDAY MAY 9TH.

During the action and development of the story, in which there are a lot of strenuous melodramatic situations, Mr. Howard has very cleverly introduced some of his very best music, which makes it surprisingly pleasing and interesting. "The Flower of the Ranch" is a pretty good back up by a heavy of girls chiding shimmering lightness and pink pajamas. "Claremont" and "The Days of '48" in which a real stage coach is introduced, are three musical numbers sufficiently clever and pleasing to hold up any musical attraction, even at two dollar prices.

The production is gorgeous and complete in every detail, while the company numbering fifty odd, includes Jess Harris, John E. Frank, J. M. Clayton, Chas. T. Mast, Harry Nelson, Alva D. Blum, John Sampson, Mark Hoode, Miss Nellie Waters and Adelaide O'Brien.

Better Heat--Less Coal

Peck-Williamson Under-Feed Furnace

This underfeed furnace gives a steady, easily regulated heat, and requires very little attention during the day. In cold weather it will require looking after about twice daily; in moderate weather once a day is enough. The fire will keep 48 hours or longer; and the most important thing is, that the Underfeed Furnace will cut your coal bill about one-half each winter of what it takes to run the ordinary furnace.

There is no chance for coal dust, soot or coal gas escaping into your home, it is all burned up in the furnace. SOLD BY—

The Ticklemouse
—and his Sleepyland Adventures
By Roy Rutherford Bailey with Davy and Dorfy

The Wishing Mouse

Part 2—The Search.

THE next morning Mrs. Dover called the twins over and over again, but they did not answer. Finally she climbed the stairs to the nursery. Mr. Dover was in the bathroom shaving, when a scream brought him to his wife's side. She was lying on the nursery rug, in a dead faint. Her children were gone!

He jumped for the camphor bottle and soon brought her to her senses, but her frightened eyes looked toward the empty beds. "Come, come, dear!" cried Mr. Dover. "Don't be frightened. The twins are just hiding somewhere, for a joke. I'll show them that's no way to treat their mamma! Davy! Dorfy! Come here at once!"

But no baby voices answered him. And though they ransacked the whole upstairs, the whole house, the whole neighborhood, the twins were nowhere to be found.

The strangest thing about it, Mrs. Dover thought, was that their sleeping suits were lying on the nursery floor, and none of their clothes were missing. Two little twins without any clothes, disappearing in the night! Who ever heard of such a thing?

Mr. Dover was puzzled just as much by the way Taft, the twins' big black cat, was behaving. He ran up and down the back alley, mewing as if he had gone stark crazy. A block or two away, he would stop and look back, then he would yell as if he felt a fit creeping upon him.

"What's the matter of Taft, anyway?" said Mr. Dover at last. "Come on, let's see where he will lead us." They set off down the alley, Taft anxiously leading them at a brisk trot.

One block, two blocks, across the Widow Shelly's lawn and over to Main Street. Here Taft broke into a run, never stopping till he had reached the grocery. Mr. Dover came up first, mopping his brow and staring into the store. "Found the twins yet?" asked Mr. Higgins, poking his head over the counter just then. "What ye lookin' at?" he went on, with a sharp glance at their worried father.

"No!" said Mr. Dover shortly. "And we're getting discouraged. What is Taft up to?"

"Dunno," answered the grocer, stupidly. "Can't think of politics till them twins are found—and I don't see how you kin. Hey, git out of that!" He angrily threw a sugar scoop at the excited cat. "Leave them mice alone!"

Mr. Dover peered into the trap at the two frightened little mice. When they saw him they squeaked wildly and reached pleading paws between the wires at him, till Taft shot out a swift paw in spite of himself and frightened them back.

"Pshaw!" said Mr. Dover in disgust. "Is that all that silly cat is so wild over—just a couple of mice? What you going to do with them, Higgins? Better let them go, don't you think?"

"Not much! Goin' to put 'em in a cage, with a wheel to spin!" said the grocer. "I'll have 'em in my show-window, by-and-by." And he turned to wait on a customer.

"Papa, oh, papa! Come back!" screamed the twin mice, as Mr. Dover walked slowly out of the store. But their voices were only mouse voices, and their father had already forgotten the captive mice in his fears for his missing children.

All day long two forlorn little mice trembled in a cage in Higgins' show-window, while the anxious searchers ransacked the town in vain for Davy and Dorfy. Some of the searching parties, stopping in front of the grocery to rest, amused themselves by watching the interesting antics of the prisoners, who had tied the handman around their waists again in the hope that somebody would guess their secret and set them free.

But nobody guessed. "Look at the colored handkerchiefs Higgins has put on those mice for belts," they would say, laughing in spite of their worry for the missing twins.

Night fell on a tired, discouraged town. The day's long search had given no clue at all, and Mrs. Dover sobbed aloud to sleep at last, while her husband walked the floor.

And all the time two sad, lonely little prisoners, a Davymouse and a Dorfymouse, were shivering in a cruel cage in the grocery window, crying out in sharp, plaintive mouse cries that nobody seemed to heed or understand.

(To be concluded.)

Sleep and the Brain.

When the brain is at work marshaling ideas, producing mental pictures, and calling into action stored-up memories and impressions, the cells of its mysteriously potent gray matter undergo a change of form. Cavities are formed in them, which, as the brain becomes wearied by long-continued action, fill with a watery fluid. Part of the substance of the cells appears to have been consumed in the process of thinking, but in the hours of sleep the exhausted cells regain their original form, the supply of recuperative material coming from the blood and on awakening, the mind finds its instrument restored and prepared again for action.

TAFT IN HOME CITY AT MAY FESTIVAL

PRESIDENT UNVEILS STATUE IN MEMORY OF THEODORE THOMAS

IS CHEERED AT FESTIVAL

Treat Portion of Day at Cincinnati Devoted to Renewing Neighborly Relations—Makes Two Brief Addresses—Starts for St. Louis

Cincinnati, May 4.—President Taft wound up a day of renewing old acquaintances by appearing before an enthusiastic throng at the opening of Cincinnati's annual May festival last night, as the dedicatee of a heroic statue of Theodore, Thomas, first conductor of the festival.

Having respected the president's wishes that he be treated as a "citizen of Cincinnati" all day, the public took full advantage of his appearance, to acclaim him as the chief executive of the nation.

Cheered by Great Throng.

A fanfare of trumpets ushered the president upon the stage, but the notes of the instruments were drowned by the shouting applause of the thousands who had listened to the inspiring patriotic strains of Mendelssohn's great choral work, "Judas Maccabaeus."

The statue of the dead musician, who conducted the festival of 1875 to 1901, had been placed in the corridor of the building. It was covered when the audience entered, but the draperies were removed at the conclusion of the president's speech, and the departing audience had a chance to view it.

After the concert the president was whisked to the Queen City club, where Lawrence Maxwell, former collector general of the United States and president of the May Festival association, was his host until the presidential party left for St. Louis.

German Ambassador, Sheres, Sharing the social honors with the president was Count von Bernstorff, German ambassador at Washington, who, accompanied the presidential CHAPTER XXII.

But Yet a Woman.

Woman turns every man the wrong side out. And never gives to truth and virtue that which she owes—merit—Pucknase.

On the day following my last interview with Mr. Callahan, I had agreed to take my old friend Dr. von Rittenhofen upon a short journey among the points of interest of our city, in order to acquaint him somewhat with our governmental machinery and to put him in touch with some of the sources of information to which he would need to refer in the work upon which he was now engaged. We had spent a couple of hours together, and were passing across the capital, with the intent of looking in upon the deliberations of the houses of congress, when all at once, as we crossed the corridor, I felt him touch my arm.

"Did you see that young lady?" he asked me. "She looked at you, yes?" I was in the act of turning, even as he spoke. Certainly had I been alone I would have seen Elizabeth, would have known that she was there.

It was Elizabeth, alone, and hurrying away! Already she was approaching the first stair. In a moment she would be gone. I sprang after her by instinct, not planning, clear in my mind only that she was going, and with her all the light of the world; that she was going, and that she was beautiful, adorable; that she was going, and that she was Elizabeth!

As I took a few rapid steps toward her, I had full opportunity to see that no grief had preyed upon her comeliness, nor had concealment fed upon her dark cheek. Almost with some resentment I saw that she had never seemed more beautiful than on this morning. The costume of those days was trying to any but a beautiful woman; yet Elizabeth had a way of avoiding extremes which did not appeal to her individual taste. Her frock now was all in pink, as became the gentle spring, and the bunch of silvery beads which fluttered at her belt had quite the agreeing shade to flush in perfection the cool, sweet picture that she made. Her sleeves were puffed widely, and for the lower arm were opened just sufficiently. She carried a small white parasol, with pinked edges, and her slippers, light and dainty, matched the clear whiteness of her arms. Just as she reached the top of the broad marble stairs, I spoke.

"Elizabeth!"

Seeing that there was no escape, she paused now and turned toward me. I have never seen a glance like hers.

"How do you do?" she remarked. Her voice was all cool white enamel. She was there somewhere, but I could not see her clearly now. It was not her voice. I took her hand, yes; but it had now none of unworldly elan.

"Elizabeth," I began; "I am just back. I have not had time—I have had no leave from you to come to see you—to ask you—to explain—"

"Explain?" she said evenly. "But surely you cannot believe that I—"

"I only believe what seems credible, Mr. Trist."

I pulled from my pocket the little ring which I had had with me that night when I drove out to Elmhurst in my carriage, the one with the single gem which I had obtained hurriedly that afternoon, having never before that day had the right to do so. In another pocket I found the plain gold one ring that same evening. My hand trembled as I held these out to her.

"I prove to you what I mean to her; I had no time! Why, Elizabeth, I was hurrying—I was mad—I had a right to offer you these things. I have still the right to ask you why you did not take them? Will you not take them now?"

She put my hand away from her gently. "Keep them," she said, "for the owner of that other wedding gift—the one which I received."

"Now I broke out. 'Good God! How can I be held to blame for the act of a drunken friend? You know Jack Danbridge as well as I do myself. I cautioned him—I was not responsible for his conduct.'"

"It was not that belief it was I who sent you that accused shoe which belonged to another woman."

"The said it came from you. Where did you get it, then?"

"You could not believe it was I who sent you that accused shoe which belonged to another woman."

"We are certain to encounter opposition. The senate may not ratify."

"Then, does that not end it?"

"End it? No! There are always other ways. If the people of this country wish Texas to belong to our flag, she will so belong. It is good as done today. Never look at the obstacle; look at the goal! It was this intrigue of Van Zandt's which stood in our way. By playing one intrigue against another, we have won thus far. We must go on winning!"

"He paced up and down the room, one hand smiting the other. 'Let England wait! Now!' he exclaimed suddenly. 'We shall annex Texas, in full view, indeed, of all possible consequences. There can be no excuse left for war over Texas. I only wish the situation were as clear for Oregon. And now comes on that next nominating convention at Baltimore.'"

"What will it do?" I hesitated.

"God knows. For me, I have no party. I am alone! I have but few friends in all the world—he smiled now—'you, my boy, as I said, and Dr. Ward and a few women, all of whom hate each other.'"

I remained silent at this point, which came home to me; but he smiled, still grimly, shaking his head. "Little of my boy, rattle of his head—it is over all our maps. But we shall make these maps! Time shall bear me witness."

"Then I may start soon for Oregon?" I demanded.

"You shall start to-morrow," he answered.

Dr. Vaughn, State's Most Important Witness, on the Stand.

Kansas City, Mo., May 4.—Dr. Victor C. Vaughn, the toxicologist of Anker Arbore, Mich., and regarded by the state as its most important witness in the Hyde murder trial, began his testimony.

Sworn evidence made by him alone and also with the aid of Dr. Walter S. Holmes of Chicago, said Doctor Vaughn, resulting in the discovery of the following:

Twenty-six thirty-thirds of a grain of strychnine in the liver of Col. Thomas H. Swoppe. Signs of strychnine in the stomach. A trace of strychnine in a kidney.

A suggestion, but no positive proof, of cyanide of potassium in the stomach of Charles Margaret Swoppe.

Cyanide of potassium on capsules said to have been thrown into a street by Dr. H. C. Tynin the night he was expelled from the Swoppe residence, last December 18.

"TWINS" BORN AS ONE CHILD.

Perfectly Formed Body Is Found Within That of Infant Boy.

Chicago, May 4.—A case which in many ways resembles that of the Siamese twins was brought to light when little George Petzinger, seven-month-old son of Martin Petzinger, gave his life that science might benefit. He died following an operation at the Norwegian Tabitha hospital, Francisco and Thomas streets, where it was found that a child about seven months advanced was in the process of formation in his abdominal cavity.

Six doctors, besides those who did the work, were witnesses to the operation, which was supposed to have been for a tumor.

Doctors who have not seen the embryo body extracted from the boy were unwilling to believe that such a thing happened, and many said that it really is a fact in the history of medical science.
